School yard with playground , landscaped with hills, trees, and gardens, surrounding Brant-Argyle School, a heritage site

What is a multi-level class?

A multi-level class is a balance of students of different age groups with a range of achievement levels. The teacher plans instruction and assessment expecting and celebrating diversity within the class. Students accept each other's unique abilities. They view learning as a process on a continuum.

IT WORKS !

"The full time Kindergarten program at Brant Argyle School is wonderful! Not only did it fit our work schedules, but it gave our son the opportunity to grow and learn in a relaxing well-paced environment. Learning in a multilevel classroom our son was able to be challenged by the older students and it has given him confidence, especially with his math and reading skills." Christine Enns

*"Myles was already attending daycare full time so the move to all day every day kindergarten was seamless. Full days offered more structure and continuity in learning. The small class size provided for more one on one learning with the teacher. A multi age classroom exposed Myles to different levels of learning which helped him excel in his areas of strength while reinforcing the basics in his areas of weakness on a daily basis."
